

- INTRODUCTION -

Crowell & Wilson record that Jeremiah Sabean, Sr. (spelled Sabin/Sabine in early colonial records) was living in Pomfret (formerly called Woodstock), Connecticut and then removed to Dutchess Co, NY ca. 1740. His son Jeremiah, Jr. (born in Pomfret, Connecticut in 1717/18), married Susannah LaVallé leaving Dutchess Co., NY to Nova Scotia. The Sabean Genealogy differs in the account of this family. It records that Jeremiah, Sr. went to York County, Maine, where Jeremiah, Jr. was born. It is this Jeremiah (Jr.) who brought the family name to NS. As a Planter to Nova Scotia Crowell and Wilson write that Jeremiah Sabean, Jr. went to Argyle, Yarmouth Co., (then part of Queen’s County), NS first but very soon after removed to the mouth of the Sissaboo River, being one of the founders of Weymouth. Crowell’s account of the ancestry further back than Jeremiah Sabean, Sr. also differs from the Sabean Genealogy.
